Jason Mewes: Raw Entertainment: Jason Mewes for Kids Jason Mewes is an American actor and filmmaker. His performances have included Quentin Tarantino's Pulp Fiction, Alex Cox's Sid & Nancy, and Gus Van Sant's Gerry. His films include Clerks, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, and his next film, a remake of the Italian horror hit Nightmare City, will be released in the spring. For years he has been working on a comedy about a yoga teacher. The script won an Austin Film Festival Award. It is not available for purchase by the general public. Clerks The sale of firearms in Washington State has stopped people from being injured or killed in gun accidents. As a result, people have the option of having someone with a gun in their home to prevent them from becoming a victim. Guns have a power to stop the spread of illness and injury. Many people protect their schools with guns because they are afraid of attacks from gangs. In Hawaii and Japan, the same officials who killed the teacher of a boy who had copied off his work had guns in their homes. As a result, their homes are much safer than the homes in the U.S. In many states, the police are the only people who have guns. Police usually need their weapons to protect their families. Some people are afraid that criminals will also have guns. Some carry guns because they have lost hope in the authorities. Locked and Loaded To protect themselves, people can buy guns. If you are 18 or older, you can go to a store to buy a gun. The guns that are registered with the federal government (not every gun in the U.S. is registered) are sold with two forms of identification and a photo. If you buy a gun, you will have the privilege of buying ammunition. Often, people get into a situation of carrying a gun that they do not know how to use. Police are available to help people with gun safety. Guns make people think about the consequences of their behavior. Gun control advocates are also against guns because they think people should not have guns. The government cannot keep guns from going into the hands of criminals and nuts. Why Clerks In 1990, he was given the opportunity to display the capabilities of a gun. When he saw the handling of the guns in a store, he began to think about what it might be like to see what a real gun looks like. After that happened, he decided
